Executive summary/abstract:

Deliverable 13.1 reports on the implementation, outcomes and key lessons learned of Task 13.1, which focused on the development and implementation of a shared careers and employability service for the EU-CONEXUS alliance through the JobTeaser platform. Building on work initiated during the pilot phase, the project sought to increase student engagement with the platform, expand access to jobs, internships and career development resources, and support employer engagement across the alliance.

Throughout the project period, partner universities promoted JobTeaser using a range of approaches including student communications, social media campaigns, careers fairs, information events, classroom presentations and employer engagement initiatives. Student registrations increased from a baseline of approximately 300 students to 2,290 students by project completion. While the original quantitative target of 3,426 registrations was not fully achieved, substantial growth was recorded over the lifetime of the project.

This report summarises implementation activities, registration outcomes, stakeholder feedback, lessons learned and the measures undertaken to strengthen promotion and student engagement throughout the project period.

Description:

Background: Deliverable 13.1 and Task 13.1 aimed to further develop and implement a shared careers and employability service for the EU-CONEXUS alliance through the JobTeaser platform. Building on the foundations established during the pilot phase, the platform was intended to provide students with access to jobs, internships, employer information, careers events and employability resources from across the alliance and beyond.

A key objective was to increase student registrations from approximately 300 students at project commencement to 5% of the total EU-CONEXUS student population (3,426 students). Alongside increasing registrations, the project sought to encourage meaningful engagement with the platform by promoting international career opportunities, strengthening employer participation, increasing awareness of EU-CONEXUS activities and supporting students' career readiness.

Throughout the project period, the Career Network coordinated alliance-wide communications, promotional campaigns, online career events and the ongoing monitoring of platform engagement. Each partner university was responsible for promoting JobTeaser locally and contributing relevant jobs, internships, employer information and career-related supports.

Implementation: During the project period, implementation of Deliverable 13.1 and Task 13.1 extended beyond the activities initiated during the pilot phase through a continued programme of platform development, student engagement, employer engagement and promotional activities across the partner universities.

JobTeaser was used as the central careers platform for promoting graduate jobs, internships, careers events, employer information and career development resources to students across the EU-CONEXUS alliance. In addition to maintaining and updating opportunities throughout the project, the platform was further developed by integrating recordings from Career Network job-readiness training events, employability resources and promotional materials designed to encourage student engagement.

To support consistent promotion across the alliance, the Career Network worked with the EU-CONEXUS Joint Communications Unit to develop a range of shared promotional resources and communication campaigns. These were adapted and implemented by partner universities using communication channels appropriate to their own institutional contexts, student populations and existing careers provision.

To increase awareness of JobTeaser, partner universities participated in a range of complementary promotional activities including information sessions about EU-CONEXUS opportunities and JobTeaser benefits, careers fairs, classroom presentations, direct email campaigns, social media campaigns and efforts to engage with employers. Summary information about EU-CONEXUS opportunities and JobTeaser was also made available on university websites. Promotional approaches were adapted to reflect local institutional contexts and existing careers provision.

Throughout the project period, JobTeaser was integrated into the Career Network's programme of online employability activities by promoting upcoming job-readiness events on the platform and providing registered students with exclusive access to event recordings and supporting career development resources following each live session.

In response to recommendations arising from the mid-term review, additional monitoring and evaluation activities were undertaken to better understand factors influencing student uptake of the platform. These included a SWOT (Strengths, Weaknesses, Opportunities, Threats) analysis of JobTeaser with Career Network colleagues, consultation with students and employers, and a review of communication approaches. Findings from these activities informed subsequent promotional campaigns and contributed to a more targeted approach to engagement during the latter stages of the project.

Methodology: Registration figures reported within this deliverable were extracted from the JobTeaser Talents module, which provides the most complete historical record of student registrations across the lifetime of the project. This approach differs from previous WP13 / Career Network progress reports, where registration figures were obtained from the Users and Statistics modules within JobTeaser.

During the project period, JobTeaser removed the Users module and confirmed that historical data from this module was no longer available. In addition, the Statistics module was updated to retain only the previous two years of registration data, making it unsuitable for reporting registrations across the full duration of the project. Following consultation with the JobTeaser support team (see Appendix A) and approval from EU-CONEXUS project management, the Talents module was adopted as the primary source for the final KPI figure, as it represents the most complete historical dataset currently available.

JobTeaser confirmed that while the Talents module may temporarily contain a small number of newly created accounts awaiting email verification, incomplete registrations are automatically removed after seven days and are therefore not expected to materially affect the final reported figures.

Where appropriate, data from the Statistics module has been used to complement the analysis by illustrating recent registration trends. Supporting evidence, including screenshots, data exports and correspondence regarding the reporting methodology, has been retained to ensure transparency and traceability.

Results

Student registrations: Student registration data demonstrate sustained growth in the use of the JobTeaser platform throughout the lifetime of EU-CONEXUS. Registration figures increased from an initial baseline of approximately 300 students at project commencement to 2,290 students at project completion, representing a substantial increase in student engagement with the platform.

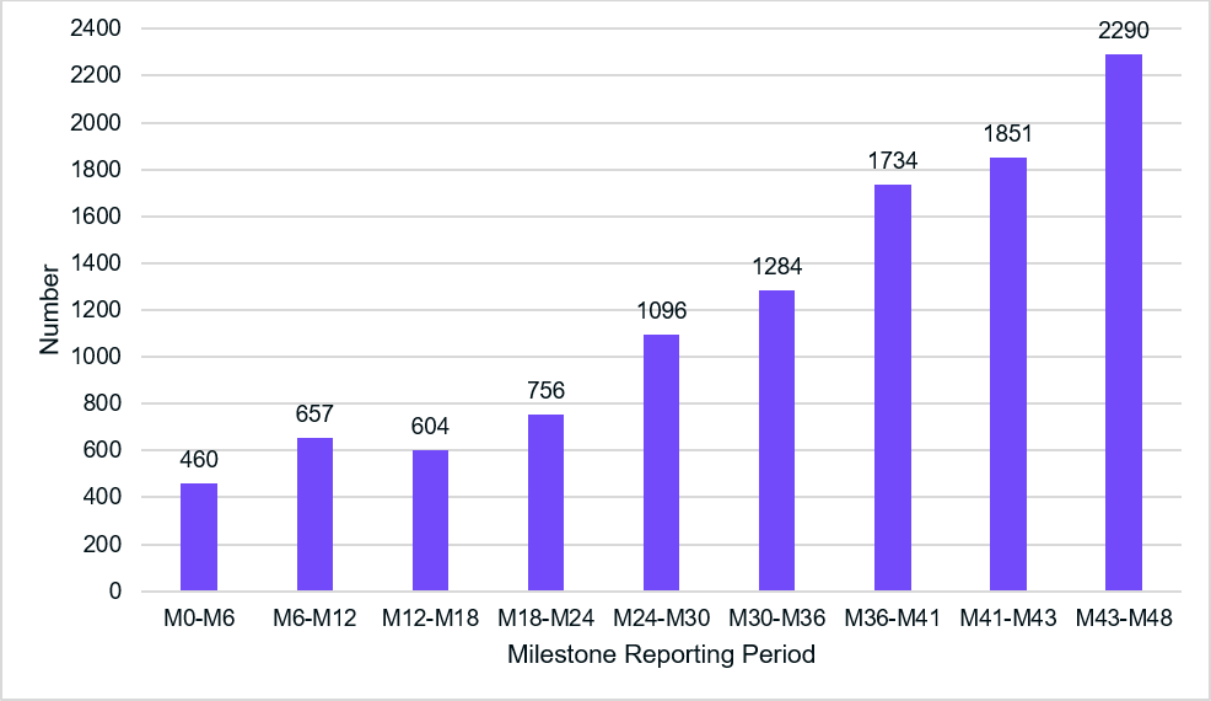

Registration growth was monitored throughout the project using data available from the JobTeaser platform. Progress was reviewed regularly by the Career Network to monitor uptake and to help inform communication and promotional activities across the partner universities.

Table 1: Cumulative student registrations on JobTeaser by reporting period

Period	Dates	No. student registrations
M0–M06	November 2023 – April 2024	460
M6–M12	May 2024 – October 2024	657
M12–M18	November 2024 – April 2025	604
M18–M24	May 2025 – October 2025	756
M24–M30	November 2025 – April 2026	1096
M30–M36	May 2026 – October 2026	1284
M36–M41	November 2026 – March 2027	1734
M41–M43	April 2027 – June 2027	1851
M43–M48	July 2027 – October 2027	2290

Total registrations to date = 2,290 which is 67% of 3,426 target.

Overall, the project achieved significant growth in student registrations relative to the baseline established at the beginning of the project. While registration growth varied throughout the reporting period, the overall trend demonstrates continued uptake of the platform across the alliance.

Promotional activities supporting JobTeaser uptake: Student registration was supported through a broad range of promotional activities undertaken by partner universities throughout the project period. While promotional approaches varied according to local institutional contexts, activities generally included direct communication with students, careers and information events, classroom presentations, summary information on university websites, social media campaigns, employer engagement and promotion during EU-CONEXUS-led events.

To support local implementation, the Career Network developed and shared promotional resources that partners could adapt for use within their own institutions. These included promotional graphics, seasonal communication campaigns, digital assets, suggested wording for social media and email communications, and guidance on promoting the platform to students and employers.

Promotion was also integrated into alliance-wide Career Network activities. JobTeaser was used to advertise online careers events, provide access to recordings of Career Network job-readiness events and career development resources, and encourage continued engagement with employability activities following each event.

An overview of the alliance-wide promotional resources, shared implementation activities and continuous improvement measures coordinated by the Career Network is provided in Appendix B. A detailed summary of promotional activities undertaken by each partner university, together with supporting evidence, is provided in Appendix C.

Monitoring and continuous improvement: Throughout implementation of Deliverable 13.1 and Task 13.1, registration data and stakeholder feedback were used to monitor progress and inform continuous improvement of the platform's promotion and implementation.

In response to recommendations arising from the project's mid-term review, a SWOT analysis of JobTeaser was undertaken to better understand challenges to engagement and factors influencing student uptake and platform engagement. Feedback was also sought from students and employers regarding their experiences of using the platform and the perceived value of the opportunities and resources available (see supplementary documentation – results from the JobTeaser survey).

While participation in the stakeholder surveys was relatively modest and findings should therefore be interpreted with appropriate caution, the consultation provided useful insight into student awareness of the platform, communication preferences and perceived barriers to engagement. These findings informed subsequent promotional activities and supported a more targeted approach to communication during the remainder of the project.

Examples of actions implemented following this review included the refinement of communication strategies, increased use of targeted promotional campaigns, continued integration of JobTeaser into careers and information events, and sought to enhance employer outreach to increase the range of opportunities available through the platform.

Discussion/content:

Deliverable 13.1 and Task 13.1 built upon the pilot phase by progressing from the initial establishment of the EU-CONEXUS Career Network on the JobTeaser platform to a coordinated alliance-wide implementation. Shared promotional resources, communication campaigns and guidance materials were developed centrally to support partner universities, while local implementation was adapted to each institution's communication channels and student population. The work also expanded the use of JobTeaser beyond jobs and internships by integrating it into Career Network activities and providing registered students with exclusive access to recordings from job-readiness training events and career development resources.

Student registrations increased steadily throughout the project period; however, the original target of 3,426 registrations was not fully achieved. Several factors influenced the rate of growth, including competition from existing university careers platforms and well-established commercial platforms, limited student interest in international employment opportunities, language barriers in some partner universities, and the challenge of encouraging students to engage with an additional careers platform. Technical issues, including email verification, confusion between the main JobTeaser platform and the dedicated EU-CONEXUS platform, and changes to JobTeaser's reporting modules, also affected implementation and reporting.

In response to these challenges, the Career Network continuously refined its implementation approach throughout the project. A SWOT analysis and stakeholder feedback surveys were undertaken to better understand barriers to engagement, while communication strategies were adapted through seasonal campaigns, shared promotional resources, campus events, classroom presentations, employer engagement and collaboration with students. Although student and employer survey response rates were modest, the findings informed ongoing improvements to platform promotion and implementation.

Overall, Deliverable 13.1 and Task 13.1 successfully supported the implementation and further development of a shared careers platform across the EU-CONEXUS alliance and generated valuable experience regarding the implementation of a common careers service within a European University Alliance. While promotional approaches varied across partner universities according to local contexts, the evidence presented in Appendices B and C demonstrates sustained implementation efforts throughout the project and provides a strong foundation for future employability initiatives across the alliance.

Conclusion:

The EU-CONEXUS JobTeaser platform was promoted as a shared resource through which students could access jobs, internships and career development materials. Although the registration target was not fully achieved, student uptake increased substantially from the project baseline and the Career Network generated valuable learning about implementing a common careers platform across diverse institutional contexts. These lessons can inform future careers and employability initiatives across the EU-CONEXUS alliance. The implementation approaches, promotional resources and lessons learned documented within this deliverable provide a practical foundation for future alliance-wide careers and employability initiatives.

Subject: Query re Historical Registration Statistics for EU-CONEXUS

Good afternoon,

I was wondering if it is possible to access historical registration data for our EU-CONEXUS JobTeaser platform please, going back to when we first started using JobTeaser.

I am trying to create a graph showing how registration numbers have changed over the lifetime of the EU-CONEXUS project, from the initial launch of the platform through to the project end date (which will be the end of October of this year).

Can registration figures be exported for a longer historical period, ideally back to the beginning of our use of JobTeaser? I believe the platform was first implemented around Q1 2023, although I am not certain of the exact date.

If this data is available, could you advise on how it can be accessed or exported?

Many thanks for your help.

Kind regards, Rebecca

Dear Rebecza,

Thank you for having contacted us. My name is Raoufa, I am part of the JobTeaser Customer experience team and I am happy to be able to help you today.

If by "registration data" you mean information related to student registrations on JobTeaser, there are two ways to access this data.

The first option is through the Statistics module. You can navigate to Activate Your Audience → Monitor Account Creations. Please note that this section only provides data for the past two years.

Alternatively, you can access the data through the Talents module by exporting the list of all your users.

Once the export has been generated, you will receive an email containing a link to download the file. In the exported document, you can find the registration date for each account in column L. Using this information, you should be able to create the graph or analysis you need.

To help you further, I have attached the export file from your Talents module to this email.

Please let me know if you have any questions or if there is anything else I can assist you with.

Kind regards,

Raoufa GATOUX

Subject: Re: Query re Historical Registration Statistics for EU-CONEXUS

Good morning Raoufa,
Thank you for your reply. The challenge with using the Talents module is that it contains both partially and fully registered students (at least this is my understanding). For my reporting, I can only include students that have fully registered.

May I ask, why does the Statistics module only go back to 2 years previous when the Talents module can record numbers from the very beginning?

In the Talents module, is there a way to determine which accounts are fully registered and which are partially registered? A filter that could be applied for example.

Is the data from the Users module archived? My understanding is that the Users module contained only fully registered students. Therefore, in theory, we could cross reference the students from the Talents module with the students from the Users module. That would identify the cohort of students that didn't not fully complete their registration.

Essentially, I am trying to obtain an accurate record of the number of student registrations (fully registered) across the full time span of EU-CONEXUS so I am open to suggestions for ways to achieve this.

Thank you, Rebecca

Dear Rebecca,

Thank you for your reply.

The Statistics module only contains data from the past two years. This limitation is due to the technical capacity of the platform used to power this module, which does not allow us to retain older data.

Unfortunately, there is no way to distinguish between accounts that were fully registered and those for which the registration process was only partially completed.

Regarding the Talents module, please note that it does include students who have created an account but have not yet confirmed it. However, I would not expect this to significantly impact your figures, as unconfirmed accounts are automatically deleted after seven days. As a result, the number of unconfirmed accounts present at any given time is generally quite low.

For this reason, I would recommend using the data available in the Talents module for your analysis.

Unfortunately, we no longer have access to the historical data that was previously available in the Users module.

Please let me know if you have any additional questions. I will be happy to help.

Kind regards,

Raoufa GATOUX

Subject: upcoming event: Think You Don't Have Enough Experience? Think Again

Dear Students,
Do you feel like you don't have enough experience to apply for the jobs you want?

You're not alone - many students feel this way. But the truth is that you may already have more relevant experience than you realise.

Join the EU-CONEXUS Career Network for:
"Think You Don't Have Enough Experience? Think Again"

You'll learn how to turn your coursework, part-time jobs, and activities into strong examples for job applications and interviews.

You'll learn how to:

- understand what employers are really looking for in job descriptions
- identify the skills you've already developed through university and work
- explain your experience clearly and confidently in applications and interviews

This session will give you practical tips to help you show employers what you can actually do.

Subject: Help shape how we connect employers with future talent

Dear [Name],

Our [Careers Service / Employability Office / Department / University] at [insert your institution name] is part of a European university alliance called EU-CONEXUS. This partnership brings together nine universities across Europe to support education, research and graduate employability.

As part of this, we use JobTeaser – a free online careers platform that helps employers connect with students and graduates from across Europe.

We are currently gathering feedback from employers to better understand what works well, what could be clearer, and how the platform can better support your recruitment needs.

We would really value your perspective. The survey will take 10 - 12 minutes to complete, beginning with a brief look at the platform.

Of course, it's entirely your choice whether to take part, but your feedback would directly help to shape how we develop and support this service for employers.

Please click here for the survey

To support you, we've also included two short PDF guides:

- How to register a company account on JobTeaser
- How to post and manage job or internship opportunities

These guides are optional but may be useful if you decide to explore the platform or advertise a role in future.

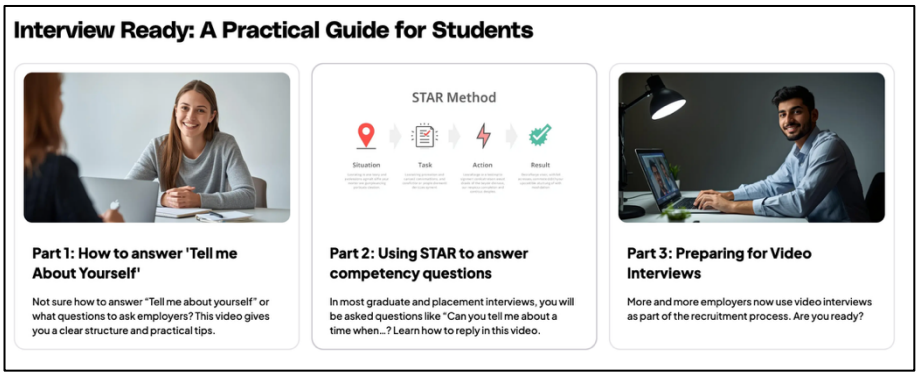

Your feedback is greatly appreciated and will help us strengthen how we connect employers with students and graduates across Europe.

If you have any questions, do not hesitate to email me. Many thanks for considering this, and for supporting student and graduate employability.

Kind regards,

B.2 Integration of JobTeaser into career network activities

JobTeaser was integrated into Career Network activities throughout the project period. The platform was promoted during all online student career events and staff Lunch & Learn sessions, providing participants with information on the platform and encouraging registration.

A total of 10 employability and career readiness activities were organised by the EU-CONEXUS Career Network, achieving a total of 2,396 registrations. A total of 17 events were held as part of the EU-CONEXUS Career Network Lunch and Learn professional development series for staff, with 2588 registrations.

Event recordings and supporting resources were subsequently made available exclusively through JobTeaser, providing students with continued access to career development content on demand. The platform was also promoted through alumni engagement activities and other alliance-wide initiatives where appropriate.

B.3 Continuous improvement

Throughout the project period, implementation of JobTeaser was continuously monitored to identify opportunities to improve student engagement. In response to recommendations arising from the project's mid-term review, the Career Network undertook a SWOT analysis of the platform and sought feedback from students and employers regarding their experiences of using JobTeaser. Findings informed refinements to communication strategies, promotional activities and employer engagement throughout the remainder of the project.

Appendix C: Summary of Partner University Activities Supporting JobTeaser Implementation

The following summaries provide an overview of the promotional activities undertaken by each partner university together with a sample of supporting evidence. Complete evidence submissions received from each partner university are available as supplementary documentation.

LRUniv

La Rochelle Université promoted the EU-CONEXUS Career Network and JobTeaser through a structured, institution-wide approach that reflected the university's communication policy and existing digital infrastructure. Rather than relying on direct student email campaigns, promotion focused on institutional communication channels including the student intranet (ENT), the university website, JobTeaser newsletters, social media, digital screens and printed promotional materials. JobTeaser was also promoted through annual welcome events, careers-related activities, Erasmus+ Days and targeted presentations to student groups. Employer-facing webpages, internship guidance and staff communications were updated to increase awareness of the platform among both internal and external stakeholders.

AUA

The Agricultural University of Athens promoted the EU-CONEXUS Career Network and JobTeaser through a combination of face-to-face engagement and regular direct communications with students. JobTeaser was promoted during institutional careers and information events, external exhibitions and outreach activities involving students, employers and other stakeholders. In addition, promotional emails highlighting the platform and its benefits were distributed every two months to undergraduate, postgraduate and doctoral students, encouraging students to register and engage with the EU-CONEXUS Career Network and JobTeaser.

UCV

Catholic University of Valencia adopted a multi-channel approach to promoting the EU-CONEXUS Career Network and JobTeaser throughout the project period. Promotion was embedded within student information sessions, careers events and Career Network initiatives, while regular reminder emails encouraged students to explore new opportunities available through the platform. A wide range of promotional materials, including flyers, postcards, roll-up banners and QR codes, were distributed across campuses to increase visibility. Seasonal social media campaigns, ambassador communications and promotional activities linked to Career Network events further supported student awareness and engagement with JobTeaser.

KU

Klaipeda University promoted the EU-CONEXUS Career Network and JobTeaser through a sustained programme of student communications, careers events and digital engagement. JobTeaser was introduced during Welcome Days, EU-CONEXUS presentations and university careers events, while follow-up emails, graduate communications and social media campaigns provided regular reminders throughout the project period. Information about the platform was integrated into the University's Student Digital Toolkit, complemented by campus flyers, WhatsApp communications and personalised guidance for students. KU also engaged employers through direct outreach and promoted Career Network activities across multiple communication channels to encourage continued student participation.

UNIZD

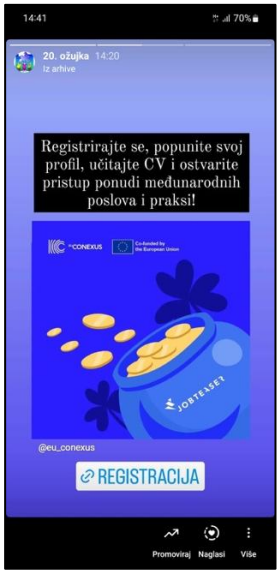

University of Zadar adopted a sustained, multi-channel approach to promoting the EU-CONEXUS Career Network and JobTeaser throughout the project period. JobTeaser was promoted regularly through university and Student Counselling Centre websites, student email campaigns and social media platforms, ensuring continuous visibility across digital communication channels. Job-readiness training activities were promoted extensively, while targeted communications through academic departments and student volunteers helped extend engagement to specific student groups. Printed promotional materials displayed within the Student Counselling Centre further supported campus awareness of the platform.

UTCB

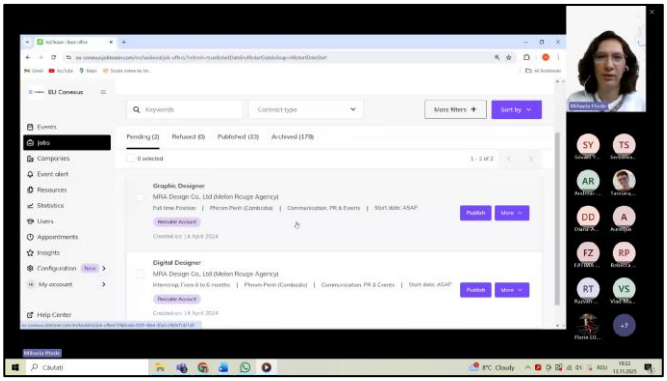

Technical University of Civil Engineering Bucharest promoted the EU-CONEXUS Career Network primarily through its participation in major EU-CONEXUS events and institutional activities. JobTeaser was regularly showcased during ConstructFest, Career Forum, International Students Day, the EU-CONEXUS PhD Summer School and International Staff Week, combining face-to-face presentations with online promotion to raise awareness among students and staff. UTCB also supported alliance-wide promotional initiatives, including participation in the EU-CONEXUS JobTeaser sign-up competition, contributing to broader efforts to increase student registrations across the alliance.

Subject: upcoming event: Think You Don't Have Enough Experience? Think Again
Dear Students,
Do you feel like you don't have enough experience to apply for the jobs you want?
You're not alone - many students feel this way. But the truth is that you may already have more relevant experience than you realise.
Join the EU-CONEXUS Career Network for:
"Think You Don't Have Enough Experience? Think Again"
You'll learn how to turn your coursework, part-time jobs, and activities into strong examples for job applications and interviews.
You'll learn how to:
understand what employers are really looking for in job descriptions
identify the skills you've already developed through university and work
explain your experience clearly and confidently in applications and interviews
This session will give you practical tips to help you show employers what you can actually do.

UROS

University of Rostock supported promotion of the EU-CONEXUS Career Network through a small number of academic events and institutional communications. JobTeaser was promoted during selected EU-CONEXUS PhD Summer School sessions, mentioned in the University's EU-CONEXUS newsletter and promoted verbally at university outreach events. While institutional policies limited direct promotion through the University's careers service and social media channels, the University continued to support Career Network activities where appropriate.

Sample supporting evidence

- Promotion of JobTeaser during EU-CONEXUS PhD Summer School sessions.
- Promotion of the EU-CONEXUS Career Centre during university outreach events and fairs.
- Reference to the EU-CONEXUS Career Centre within the University of Rostock EU-CONEXUS newsletter. [A]

FredU

Frederick University integrated JobTeaser into a broad range of their Career Office activities throughout the project period. Promotion combined campus-based awareness activities, orientation and welcome events, careers fairs, class visits, targeted email campaigns, employer engagement and regular social media communications. This approach ensured that students were introduced to the EU-CONEXUS Career Network and JobTeaser at multiple stages of their university journey while also encouraging employers to advertise opportunities through the platform.

Sample supporting evidence

- Orientation Days introducing new students to the EU-CONEXUS Career Centre and JobTeaser platform. [A]
- Promotion of JobTeaser during Frederick University's annual Career Fair for students and employers. [B]
- Campus-based promotion through JobTeaser flyers, posters and QR codes displayed across university locations. [C]
- Examples of Career Office social media posts promoting JobTeaser and EU-CONEXUS career opportunities. [D]
